ILSI 2018 Annual Meeting, Bermudas

Southampton, Bermuda. From January 19 to 23, 2018, ILSI Global held its annual meeting, a very special event since the organization is celebrating its 40th anniversary. ILSI Mesoamerica had the opportunity to participate in the following work sessions:

- Meeting of the Management Team conformed by all the Executive Directors of the subsidiaries of ILSI. In this meeting, our Executive Director Dr. Hannia León was appointed as Vice Chair of the group.

- ILSI Staff Sessions.
- Meeting of Latin American subsidiaries.
- Session of organization of projects within the framework of One ILSI Strategy.
- General Assembly of the Board of Trustees of ILSI Global.
- Poster session.
- Science Serving Society session, which was chaired by Professor Carmela Velázquez of CITA - UCR, Costa Rica.

During this session, ILSI Mesoamerica did present two projects of key importance:

1- Latin American Nutrition and Health Study (ELANS) by professors Georgina Gómez and Mauro Fisberg, principal investigators of the project.

2- Validation of control measures to reduce pathogens and ensure the safety of three artisan dairy products produced in the Mesoamerican region, by Dr. Jessie Usaga, principal researcher who was also awarded the Malaspina Travel Award, which recognizes the work of young scientists.
